

AddTranslation2FromFile

Translate the value of a field based upon the value of another field, where the other field value can be loaded multiple times using the contents of a file.

Phase

This instruction is used by the TapeTrack Import Engine.

Syntax

AddTranslation2FromFile(field, field2, filterfile, translation);

| Variable    | Type   | Description                                                                                                                                                              | Min Length | Max Length |
|-------------|--------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|------------|
| field       | String | The field to be translated.                                                                                                                                              | 1          | 128        |
| field2      | String | The field to be compared.                                                                                                                                                | 1          | 128        |
| filterfile  | String | A file containing filter values to compare against the current field value.                                                                                              | 1          | 256        |
| translation | String | The new value of the field. This can either be a new literal value, or the original value with a prefix or suffix. To represent the current value use an asterisk ("*"). | 1          | 256        |

See the notes for Add Translation2.

Example

Append L3 to each VOLUME field if the value of the MEDIA matches a pattern within a record of c:\data\LTO3Volumes.txt.

<sxh> AddTranslation2FromFile(VOLUME, MEDIA, "c:\data\LTO3Volumes.txt", "*L3"); </sxh>
