Welcome

Welcome to the TapeTrack Documentation Website.

This site is the official documentation source for GazillaByte's TapeTrack product and is based upon the Wiki paradigm of documentation.

Why a Wiki?

The discipline of tape management is just one of those things that everybody does slightly differently, while assuming that everybody does it exactly the same way. As a result, the TapeTrack product has evolved to be incredibly flexible, but also quite complex; we never want to dictate to people how they should manage their tapes, but as a consequence we must help them configure the software to fit their existing processes.
